Communication and PR

Associations increasingly realise that having a professional PR and communication policy is essential for further development of the association. Logically responding thereto, Motivation Office Support (MOS) has added communication activities to its package of services. Its comprehensive package of communication services enables MOS to act quickly and adequately and meet practically any communication-related requirement, in respect of both advice and execution.

Service

MOS' communication services are focused on supporting pr and marketing communication activities as well as on editing and advice on press policy:

- producing magazines;
- text production and final editing;
- brochures, flyers, advertisements;
- web content;
- social media;
- project coordination;
- printed matter;
- press releases and press policy;
- advice on communication;
- free publicity.

Scope

As each organisation is unique, MOS adjusts its package of services to its customers' requirements. Thus, we give your organisation a professional, uniform and attractive profile. Because MOS produces all materials itself, it can offer its customers a competitive and attractive rate.
